Supervisor of Elections Wants to Alert Brevard Voters of Voter Participation Center & Center for Voter Information Mailings

Supervisor of Elections Lori Scott wants to alert Brevard voters of mail campaigns initiated by both the Voter Participation Center (VPC) and the Center for Voter Information (CVI) a sister organization of VPC. The VPC and CVI are Washington, D.C. based voter organizations that, per their websites, target citizens who are not registered to vote.

Unfortunately, and historically, the VPC and CVI pull information for their mailings from various, unverified, sources. Previous mailings have resulted in voter registration applications being sent to deceased persons, minor children and even pets. Mailings have also been sent to registered voters which creates unnecessary confusion and concern.

“Although concerning, unsolicited and unofficial mailings from 3rd party organizations does not mean your registration status has changed,” said Supervisor Scott. “You can personally verify your voter registration status on the VoteBrevard.com website or by calling my office directly at (321) 633-2124.”

The VPC and CVI are registered third-party organizations with the State of Florida. These organizations are not affiliated in any way with the Brevard County Supervisor of Elections Office. Voters with questions or concerns regarding these mailings are encouraged to contact the VPC and CVI directly at (877) 255-6750 or by visiting: <http://www.voterparticipation.org>.
